

I am opposed to giving ham radio operators any additional frequency allocations. By their childish, nasty operating practices and cliqueishness, they have already demonstrated that they are not worth of possessing the frequencies already allocated to them, let alone any additional frequencies. The general public should have access to these frequencies instead.